

ROOSEVELT FRIENDS DAY WITH PUEBLO INDIANS

Talks in Sign Language, Buys Trinkets and Asks Albuquerque Audience to Break Loose From Bosses

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 18.—The "great white father," in the person of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, opened diplomatic relations with the Indians of New Mexico today, and before he started for "Colorado" tonight, had struck up a neighborly acquaintance with them.

The colonel put in a little time at politics, but that was incidental. Most of the day was spent in the run across the state, and whenever the train stopped the Indians studied Colonel Roosevelt and Colonel Roosevelt studied the Indians. There was no time for anything else. The colonel's arrival in Albuquerque toward the end of the day brought him back, he said, to the stern call of duty, and he took up the campaign once more.

Colonel Roosevelt spoke to a large crowd on the plaza here. He appealed especially to the Spanish Americans to support the new party and to turn their backs to the bosses.

Indians Meet "Great White Father"

It was the Pueblo Indians whom Colonel Roosevelt met wherever he went today. The Apaches and Zunis, who live back from the railroad, had never heard of the Progressive party, and did not come to see its candidate. There was some doubt whether the Pueblos themselves would be interested in a presidential candidate as such, and Col. Cecil Lyon of Texas, major domo of the Roosevelt train, sent word ahead to the Indian villages along the way that the "great white father" was coming. On the strength of this assurance they left their little white huts on the cliffs and came out in full regalia.

The largest and most ceremonious gathering of Pueblos was at Laguna, a picturesque settlement of low, white buildings on the side of the hill with a Catholic church, a monument to the early Catholic missionaries to the Indians, towering over all. There were perhaps a hundred Indians in the crowd which was waiting for the train. Others sat on the red rocks above and looked down on the scene with impassive faces.

The squaws wore white stockings, white moccasins and 7-foot-long shawls. The braves are "old more somberly, and all of them were somewhat of a study.

"Heap Big Indian" was in the front of the crowd to do the honors. "Heap Big Indian" is known at the Carlisle Indian school, of which he is a graduate, as Frank Simons, and is chief of the Laguna tribe.

Colonel Uses Sign Language

As soon as the train stopped, the brawny Indian chief, wearing corduroys and a scarlet handkerchief around his neck, walked solemnly forward and thrust out his hand, while the lesser Indians stood back in silence. Colonel Roosevelt grasped the outstretched hand.

"What school?" the colonel asked. "Carlisle," the chief replied. "That's fine, by George," said the colonel. "There was a Carlisle boy at the Olympic games who cleaned them all up. He ran like a coyote with a torch in his mouth."

At this utterance the Indians wagged their heads and smiled, for the colonel had used a bit of Indian slang which they understood.

"Oh, I live among the Indians in the north," he said, "and I know a good deal about you. See here?"

The colonel thrust one arm into the air, with two fingers held apart like a V.

"Indian sign language," he said. "That means jackrabbit."

The Indians wagged their heads. Then the colonel drew his fingers across his throat as if he were cutting it.

"Sioux Indians," he said, and the Indians agreed.

With his forefinger—the colonel traced an imaginary writhing line through the air.

"Comanches," he announced.

Had to Buy "Presents"

By this time the Indians were smiling broadly. The colonel then put his hands, with fingers outstretched, beside his head and waved them as though they were huge ears. It was supposed to represent the head of a wolf peering over the top of the cactus.

"Apache," he called out.

"The great white father knows," said Heap Big Indian.

Several squaws with baskets balanced on their heads walked up. In the baskets were fruit, pottery, and all sorts of things which the Indians make. The colonel, who has been showered with presents of fruit and flowers since he began his trip, looked at them expectantly.

"Ten cent," said a squaw, holding up a vase.

There was nothing free. The squaws were there for commercial purposes, and the colonel directed his secretary to buy something from each.

A large part of the crowd which heard Colonel Roosevelt in Albuquerque was composed of Mexicans, and there was a scattering of Indians. Half a hundred cowboys rode up at a gallop while the colonel was speaking and almost broke up the meeting.

Talks to Rough Riders

George Armijo, who was a sergeant of Colonel Roosevelt's Rough Riders, acted as interpreter for his old commander when he spoke to those in his audience who knew only Spanish.

"I hope you will break loose from the bosses in this state," said Colonel Roosevelt in this fashion. "I ask you to be your own master. I ask you to act for yourselves and tell the bosses you are through with them."

In his general address Colonel Roosevelt attacked the bosses of both parties.

"As I make my appeal to honest

WILL MEET ROOSEVELT

SPECIAL AT LA JUNTA

PUEBLO, Sept. 18.—Pueblo's formal reception to Colonel Roosevelt will take place several miles south of the city. The full committee of local Progressives which has in charge the entertainment of the former president while here, will meet his train at La Junta and come up with their guest.

Because he is a Democrat, the mayor of the city, T. D. Donnelly, has been denied the courtesy of extending an official welcome to Colonel Roosevelt. It had first been arranged to have Mayor Donnelly do this, but objection was raised by some of the Progressives. Mr. Roosevelt and party will arrive at 12:30 and go direct to the fair grounds.

The Monitor for the Present

Battle Hymn of the Republic

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord;
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword:
His truth is marching on—

I have seen Him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded Him an altar in the evening dews and damps;
I can read His righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps.
His day is marching on—

I have read a fiery gospel writ in burnished rows of steel;
"As ye deal with my customers, so with you my grace shall deal,"
Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel,
Since God is marching on—

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat,
He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment seat;
Oh! be swift, my soul, to answer Him! be jubilant, my feet!
Our God is marching on—

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me,
As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free,
While God is marching on—

FIVE THOUSAND STRIKE AT UTAH COPPER MINE

Property Is Surrounded by Pickets, and Owners Shut Out; Bloodshed Feared.
One Mine in Operation

BUNHAM, Utah, Sept. 18.—Only the strike at Bingham went into effect at 10 o'clock this morning. As scheduled, at a tumultuous meeting of the miners last night, but the pickets did not show up until an hour and a half or two hours later. By that time, the miners had removed their tools from the various mine workings.

Strike pickets, most of them with arms of some description, stationed themselves at the approaches to the various properties. Some fired shots in the air. A few miners, going to their work as usual, were ordered back. Company officials were shut out of their own properties.

Seventy-five sheriffs are patrolling the streets tonight, and all saloons are closed. Early tonight a crowd of strikers threatened the patrol, but they were promptly held up and dispersed. The strikers have surrounded themselves in communicating positions above the mines, and have fired on several parties who attempted to clear the properties. Night Sheriff, John Kennedy, of the Utah copper company was fired on today when he attempted to leave the mine.

Gov. Spry is in the district, looking his deputies. Governor Spry has been called to Salt Lake, and will meet with the sheriff and mine officials tomorrow morning to ascertain whether or not the situation is such that state troops will be necessary. Members of the state militia are expecting a call to the district, and are making their camp equipment today.

But one mine continued in operation, that of the Utah Apex Mining company, whose officials signed a contract with the miners a few days ago. The Utah Copper company, one of the most productive copper mines of the world, the Utah Consolidated, United States, Bingham New Haven, Ohio Copper, Bingham Mines and a score of lesser mines and leases, the Bingham & Carlisle railway, and the copper in the Copper But branch of the Utah railway were closed tightly.

Early in the day some of the Bingham mine strikers made a proposition to Sheriff Spry of Salt Lake county, which caused him to arrange a meeting with C. S. Tingey, secretary of state, A. L. Barnes, attorney general, John K. Hardy, secretary of the governor, R. C. Gemmill, assistant

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt this afternoon will address a crowd of thousands of people at North park, or in case of bad weather, at Temple theater. Hundreds of people from Manitou, Colorado City, Fountain and the outlying country districts will be in Colorado Springs to listen to the Wielder of the Big Stick in one of his characteristically interesting speeches on the important political subjects now before the nation.

Colonel Roosevelt's train will arrive here at 2:45 p. m., according to the latest report received by the local committee in charge. He will be met at the Santa Fe depot by members of the committee, a police escort and a number of admirers of the former president, who will join in the automobile parade.

It is probable that they will go to Pueblo to meet the colonel, and return with him to this city. Mr. Stewart was unable to accept the invitation of the Denver Progressives to join their party, which passed through here yesterday en route to Trinidad, but may be able to make the Pueblo trip today.

Immediately upon the colonel's arrival here he will be taken to his auto. The parade will be headed by an escort of four policemen in an auto. Stewart's Letter Resigning Leadership G.O.P. Committee

The letter in which Philip B. Stewart made his formal announcement of resignation as chairman of the Republican county central committee was received yesterday by Secretary D. F. Law of the committee. No arrangements have been made for a meeting to select a successor, but it is expected that action will be taken within a few days to provide the committee with a head. Secretary Law is mentioned for the position. Mrs. Ida M. Hamilton, vice secretary of the committee, has not been advised what course of action will be pursued, although she is virtually the head of the committee.

Mr. Stewart's letter to the committee is as follows:

Stewart's Letter.
September 18, 1912.
To the Republican Central Committee of El Paso County, Hon. David Law, Secretary.

Members of the Committee—In assenting to my election as chairman of your committee, I was actuated by motives of loyalty to the Progressive Republican nominees on the county ticket, who were successful at the recent primaries and to whom I was pleased by every consideration of honor to take no step bearing on the local organization that would affect unfavorably their position as the party's nominees. They have been loyally associated with me in the fight we were jointly making within the party in furtherance of certain well-defined principles. Although in this fight I was defeated, while they were successful before the primaries, my sense of obligation to them required me to take such attitude with respect to the local Republican organization as would best, in their judgment, further their chances for election in November.

Since your giving my assent they have absolved me from this obligation to them and I therefore beg to resign the position of chairman, to which you have elected me and refer you to the statement which I am publishing. In explanation of the position which I have resolved to take during the present campaign, I am, very respectfully,

PHILIP B. STEWART.

NEVADA PROGRESSIVES BECOME "INDEPENDENTS"

CARSON, Nev., Sept. 18.—If an opinion rendered today by Attorney General Baker is sustained by the state supreme court, Nevada Progressive electors must go on the November ballot as "Independents" and will not be allowed party designation. This rule must apply, he said, to all Progressive candidates for office in Nevada.

Wickersham Spies Shadow Sen. Dixon

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Chattanooga station of the Progressive National committee, tonight charges that two agents of the United States department of justice, whom he called "Wickersham spies," have been spying on him and Melvin McCormick. He accused the men of tapping telephone wires and stealing a satchel which the alleged "spies" apparently believed contained compromising papers. Senator Dixon gave the names of the men as Arnold and Wardlaw. He said they have been in Chicago a week investigating officials denied knowledge of any men of the names given being employed in the department of justice. Melvin McCormick said the two men followed Senator Dixon when he left Chicago for New York, tonight.

No Clew Concerning Snead's Accomplice

AMARILLO, Tex., Sept. 18.—The supposed accomplice of J. B. Snead in the murder of WILLIAMS, held off Saturday, occupied rooms with Snead in a house upon the corner of the Broadway, was the nearest approach to the establishment of the identity of the Potter county grand jury. No clew has been secured as to the present whereabouts of the alleged accomplice. An agreement between counsel for Snead and Judge J. N. Branning of the Fort Worth district court, was reached today for a hearing on the application for a writ of habeas corpus Monday afternoon.

PRISONERS PAROLED TO PROVIDE FOR FAMILIES

DENVER, Sept. 18.—Five prisoners were paroled to the state prison board today, in order that 20 children may be provided with the necessities of life. Four of the men, D. B. Gist, Jesse Young, John Young and Steve Glover, are farmers of Kiowa county, were sentenced last April for breaking into a box car and stealing food. The wages of four of them for in the spring crops, and recently applied to the prison board to release their husbands in time to take care of the harvest. Gist is unmarried. The other three men's families consist of a total of 13 children. John Gist, son of D. B. Gist, is a school teacher in Garfield county, for his father has seven children.

TIDE TURNS TOWARD PROGRESSIVE PARTY

New Alignment of Stewart.
Dodge, Vincent and Griffith
Causes Enthusiasm

Special to The Gazette.
DENVER, Sept. 18.—Reports from all over the state today indicate that the effect of the statement issued by Stewart, Vincent, Dodge and Griffith, aligning themselves with Roosevelt, has turned the tide toward the Progressive party in Colorado. With Roosevelt on the border line to the south, and Stewart's stand being read and discussed in every city and town in the state, a wave of Progressive strength is sweeping everything before it.

Following the action of Stewart and associates in withdrawing from the Republican party and joining the Progressives, all the petition candidates for places on the Republican state ticket at the recent primaries, today sent a telegram to Theodore Roosevelt, declaring that they would support the new party.

Denver Post Messrs. are sending more energy to the end that they will succeed in getting Ben Griffith to accept the attorney generalship on their ticket and Clarence P. Dodge, the attorney of congressmen at large.

Griffith came through the primaries on the Progressive Republican ticket, and it is said that it will require the official count to determine whether Dodge, Progressive Republican, or LaFollette Republican, gained the nomination.

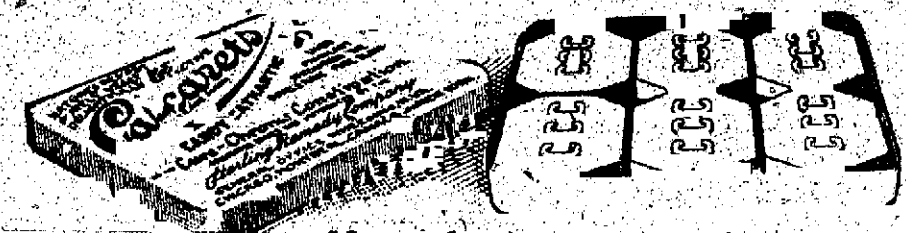

Allison Stocker, Post Messrs. state chairman, E. P. Costigan, candidate for governor, and others left today to meet Colonel Roosevelt at Trinidad. A telegram was sent Mr. Stewart at noon inviting him to join the party.

The telegram referred to in the Denver dispatch was received here by Mr. Stewart, who sent a representative to meet the party at the train and convey his regrets at not being able to accept on account of other matters which demand attention today. When the Denver party received advice that he will introduce Colonel Roosevelt here today, there were given for Stewart.

BOWELS SLUGGISH, STOMACH SOUR, GASSY, UPSET? CASCARETS GREAT!

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is full of sour bile, your liver is clogged with biliousness, and your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it's the biliousness and constipation.

Try Cascarets: they immediately sweeten the stomach, remove the waste, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

NOT NECESSARY TO BE RADICAL—WILSON

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 12.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson struck the trail of Colonel Roosevelt for the first time in the campaign today when he whirled through a program of speeches and receptions in the Twin Cities. The Democratic candidate started for Chicago and Detroit tonight, deeply pleased, he said, with the crowds that either heard him speak or shouted their cheers as he motored through the streets of the two cities.

When the party reached Minneapolis, the Commercial club had breakfast ready, and the governor talked 20 minutes on the trusts and big business, eliciting close attention and applause. President George H. Vincent introduced the governor as "a man who had removed the stigma of the doctrine from academic life, a scholar of politics, a scholar in politics, a scholarly politician, and a statesman."

It was at the parade grounds, a broad meadow in the residence district of Minneapolis, that the governor made his longest speech of the day. He was emphatic in his declaration that the national campaign was not one of personalities, but issues. The crowd interrupted frequently with applause and shouts of approval.

Wants to Be Understood.
"I have simply wanted to show you the inside of my mind," said the nominee in conclusion, "so there need be no misunderstanding between us, so you wouldn't think I was one of those fellows running amuck because I knew something was the matter and didn't know exactly what. This is no Donnybrook fair. I have got my shillies, but I am not hitting every head I see. I have selected the heads, and if they'll only engage in a little hard thinking underneath the endangered craniums, they needn't be hit at all. Because the whole thing is as much in their interest as in the interest of the rest of us."

At St. Paul tonight the candidate launched into a discussion of radicalism and progressivism.
"I would be a radical if necessary," said the governor, "but I am a progressive because it is not necessary to be a radical. It is not necessary to put the body politic to uncomfortable strains, because we can by cooperative effort accomplish the things necessary for our economic salvation."
Turning to the question of the tariff, Mr. Wilson said he was not one of those who "was kept awake at night by the free trade bogie."

"There is not any danger of free trade," he added, "because we have one of the most expensive and extravagant of central governments."

SHOOTS BROTHER AND WIFE; ENDS OWN LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hall Mur dered in San Francisco.
Cause Unknown.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Arthur Hall, known here until today as Arthur Knable, shot and killed his brother, James J. Hall, in the latter's downtown office, late today, then went to his victim's apartments, 15 blocks away, killed Mrs. James J. Hall and committed suicide. The tragedy brought the first disclosure to friends of the family here of the relationship of the two men. Family quarrels are believed to have caused the shooting.

Arthur Hall, who was 20 years old, was an employee of the St. Francis Importation company, a subsidiary concern of the St. Francis hotel of this city. James J. Hall, 35 years old, was manager of the company. The elder Hall was slain while telephoning to the office of the hotel. The conversation was interrupted by the snap of the revolver by Hall's end.

"Hall has hung up," said the hotel clerk, to his assistant.
After a wait of a few minutes, a bell-boy was sent to Hall's office and found Hall on the floor dead, a bullet wound near his heart.

Mrs. Hall Not Informed.
Maude Egan, a telephone operator, called Mrs. Hall on the telephone to tell her of her husband's death. The girl hastily attempted to deliver her message and failed.

"What has happened? Tell me quickly," Mrs. Hall insisted, but the operator closed the circuit.
Meanwhile the slayer was approaching the Hall apartments on a trolley car, having left the company offices immediately after shooting Hall. A few moments after the telephone conversations, occupants of the apartment house heard two revolver shots in Mrs. Hall's rooms. They entered and found the bodies of Mrs. Hall and her brother-in-law face downward on the floor of the living room. Mrs. Hall had been shot through the heart and Hall through the head. No outcry had been heard and there were no indications of a struggle. Mrs. Hall was alone when the youth entered.

It is believed that the Hall brothers concealed their relationship to avoid difficulties with the hotel management which might have arisen on account of the elder Hall giving employment to a member of his own family. Arthur Hall had been employed by the Importation company about a year and a half, and was carried on the books during the entire time as Arthur Knable.

Cause of Crime Not Known.
While the quarrels between the brothers, said to have been for the most part about trivial matters, frequently caused comment among the other hotel employees, the nature of the disagreement which precipitated today's tragedy has not been ascertained. Arthur Hall, who came to San Francisco from Philadelphia six years ago, was of melancholy and erratic temperament, his idiosyncrasies having been caused, it is said, by a blow on the head about nine years ago. Friends of the family believe this affliction suddenly drove him mad and led him to commit the crimes in a fit of insane anger.

FIVE THOUSAND STRIKE

manager of the Utah Copper company, and Clarence H. Allen, assistant mine manager of the United States Mining company.

Governor May Intercede.
At this meeting, held in Salt Lake City, the situation was discussed and a statement telegraphed to Governor Spry, who is in the southern part of the state. Sheriff Sharp made no request for state troops, but indicated to the governor that the forces at his command would not be sufficient to control the thousands of idle men in this camp.

Governor Spry replied that he would be in Salt Lake by tomorrow and would make a personal investigation before using the power of the state in the wage controversy.
Sheriff Sharp, in the meantime, dispatched reinforcements to his little army of deputies. With a force numbering 35 men, the officers in camp started a party on the rounds of the mine to draw the fire which had been left burning under many of the boilers. This party had scarcely started up the mountain on which most of the miners are located when bullets began to patter on the hillside in front of them, and it was discovered that the strikers had been busy building breastworks in commanding positions at each side of the narrow gulch, in which this town hides itself. The officers retired.

Asked 50 Per Cent Increase.
The Bingham miners made an informal demand, several weeks ago, for a flat increase of wages in all departments of 50 cents a day. September 1, the Utah Copper company announced a horizontal increase of 25 cents a day for all labor, and the other employees adopted the same scale. This was not satisfactory to a majority of the men, and agitation for the full 50-cent raise continued.

Ten days ago a union meeting was held in which a strike vote was ordered. The strike proposition was overwhelmingly in favor, and the result of the ballot was forwarded to the executive committee of the Western Federation of Miners at Denver. It brought President Charles H. Meyer of the federation to Utah on the first train. In his communications with the miners he urged that the possibilities of diplomacy be exhausted before the declaration of a strike, but the alien element in the camp, consisting of Greeks, Austrians, Italians, Japanese and Bulgarians, who largely outnumbered the American miners, were insistent upon a walk-out. The Finns and Americans in the union are said to have stood with Meyer, but when they found themselves outnumbered, 10 to 1, they joined the majority in voting for the strike. President Meyer, in speaking for the strikers today, said:

"While personally I have done what I could to prevent this strike, now that it has come, I regard the demands of the men as fair and just and the Western Federation of Miners will back them completely. The men are entitled to a raise, and the mining companies know it. They are working too long hours. The high price of copper certainly justifies the raise which the men want. Tomorrow another company, or perhaps two more, may consent to meet with representatives of the union, but these will not include the Utah Copper company."
The fact that Manager Jackling of Utah Copper has just signed an agreement for five years with the miners union in Montana would indicate that he is dodging the issue here.

States Company's Position.
Mr. Jackling has been visiting his properties in Arizona and New Mexico. In his absence his assistant, R. C. Gemmell, spoke for the company. He said:

"We do not treat with the officers of the union regarding any matters connected with the mines. We do not recognize the federation. We are always willing to confer with our employees or properly appointed committees. If this is done the mine owners or the directors of the companies affected would take the issues under consideration and all controversies would be adjusted."
Mr. Gemmell said he knew nothing of the signing of a contract by Mr. Jackling in Montana. Officers of the miners union explained their reason for not sending committees of employees to the company by pointing to the polyglot nature of the mine forces.

Effect of Prolonged Strike.
The possible effect of a prolonged strike at Bingham is indicated by figures on the camp's production of copper. This is in the neighborhood of 20,000,000 pounds monthly, of which the Utah Copper, handling low grade porphyry rock in immense quantities, furnishes about 12,000,000 pounds.
Dividends from the Utah Copper amount to about $7,000,000 annually. Its low grade copper ore, which is gouged from terraces along the side of the mountain, is hauled by its own railroad to Garfield, on the shore of Great Salt Lake, where it is reduced in two great mills to a smelting grade. The concentrators supply more than half the tonnage of the American Smelting & Refining company's Garfield smelter. It is estimated that the mills have not to exceed two days' supply of ore in their bins and the smelter will have to close half its furnaces in two weeks without the Bingham ores. The mills and smelters give employment to about 5,000 men.

JOHNSON PAYS TRIBUTE TO SENATOR BEVERIDGE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 18.—After three days of campaigning in Illinois, Governor Johnson of California, came into Indiana today to begin a tour that will last a part of two days, and made his first long speech since he spoke in Peoria Monday. Beside discussing the Progressive platform and reviewing the causes that led up to the formation of the new party, the governor paid a high tribute to former Senator Beveridge. Progressive candidate for governor in Indiana, Mr. Beveridge termed the election of Mr. Johnson the duty of the state, not only to itself, but of the nation. In referring to Mr. Beveridge, Governor Johnson said:

"In the 12 years in which he represented his state in Washington, he was right and fearlessly right on every important question. His election this year as your chief executive means not only the vindication of Progressive ideas and principles in your state, but it means the return, to public life of the man in Indiana whom the people of this country most need in the councils of the nation at this critical period."

EXPEDITION FIXES DATE OF ANCIENT MINOAN TOWN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—According to Dr. Edith H. Hall, assistant curator in the Mediterranean section of the University of Pennsylvania museum, who has just returned from Crete, the expedition which she headed found the means for fixing the date of the declining years of the great Minoan kingdom that flourished 2,000 years ago.
She also told of the finding of the ruins of an ancient Minoan town on the eastern side of Crete.
"We found," said Miss Hall, "bronze tripods, swords and ornaments. A number of Egyptian scarabs, which furnished the means of fixing the date of this ancient town, are dated 950 to 850 B. C."
On an average Great Britain yields 30 bushels of wheat to the acre; New South Wales, 15; the United States, 12; and Russia, eight.

MARSHALL ATTACKS TARIFF SCHEDULES

Declares They Are Real cause of Present Unrest in Business Conditions

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 18.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall, Democratic nominee for vice president, in a speech here tonight, charged that under high tariff the Japanese navy was able to buy steel at 40 per cent of the price charged the United States government. He said:

"The tariff schedules of this country, which have produced the trusts and monopolies, have been enacted by a species of log-rolling, and the never-ending changes in these schedules are helping one man and harming another without right. This produces the real cause of the unrest in business conditions."

"The manufacturer is coming to realize that it is to his interest to have peace and certainty and to have his business divorced from the tinkering of government, that the sum of the benefit to one man has been equaled by the sum of injury to others; that the legislation has been local in its character."

"People have laughed over the article in a September magazine on an industry wherein a trust magnate procured a tariff duty of 32 cents on single bananas in order that Jimmie might build glass houses on the barren farms of New England and raise bananas."

Boosting the "Big Man."
"But the exaggeration was not so ridiculous, after all. Very much more than a thing has been done. An Indiana man got under the Payne-Aldrich umbrella because he could not raise pineapples without assistance. Every fever-stricken child must pay more for a pineapple that this man may be enabled to raise them. The lemon growers of California obtained one-half cent per pound tariff on lemons and thereby closed the mills at Bangor, Me., which turned out the material for lemon boxes, as the Italian lemon grower retaliated on the box manufacturers. A boost for a big man under this system has always been a knock for the little fellow."

"Once inoculate man with the right of special privilege and it goes into every drop of his blood. He thinks he is perfectly justified in taking it wherever he can get it, and legislators think they are equally justified in giving it whenever it is asked. Take this example, if you please, of the virus that is in our system: under Republican rule, in the state of Maine, the Bangor & Aroostook railroad paid $100,000 a year taxes. By legislative authority, $95,000 of this money was rebated to the railroad under condition that the railroad should haul the troops of Maine free of charge in the event of war with Canada. Under the Democratic administration, this graft stopped, and the railroad was told that in the event of war regular rates would be paid for the transportation of troops."

As to Special Privilege.
"Special privilege will not treat its own people as decently as it treats others. The United States Steel corporation sold its armor plate at Portsmouth, England, for the Japanese navy, at 50 per cent of the price it charged the United States government. I don't blame it for doing so. A government that hands an industry a budget with which to knock down its own citizens ought, itself, to be knocked down. This is one bit of easy money that I do not begrudge the United States Steel corporation."
"The control of the trusts by stand-patter and progressive, as proposed by their platforms, is practically the same. From the text of their platforms no sermon can be preached which does not praise the protective system, which is responsible, in large part, for the high cost of living, for the levying of a tribute of $100 a year off of every man, woman and child in America for the benefit of the trust magnate, and for the destitution and hopelessness of the working man's condition."

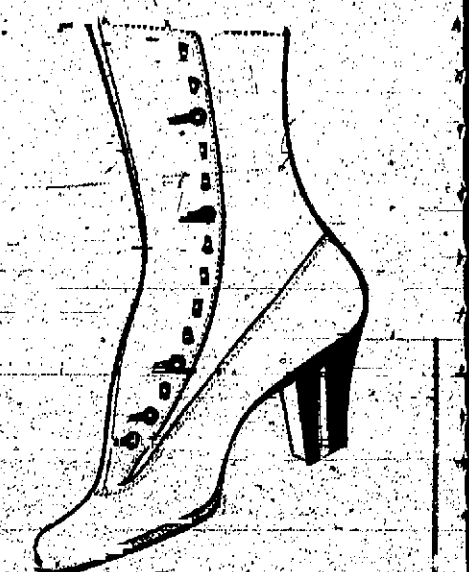

"The real fight between the stand-patter and the progressive is not at Armageddon—it is here, and now; the real fight is to determine which shall be the scapegoat to carry the sins of the party into the wilderness of forgetfulness."

GIRL REFORMER WARNED TO DISCONTINUE CRUSADE

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Miss Virginia Brooks, the girl reformer who led the crusade which resulted in the closing of the disorderly resorts in West Hammond, tonight received an anonymous letter threatening her with death unless she discontinued activity. A similar letter has been received by the mayor of West Hammond.
"I am not at all worried over this latest threat," said Miss Brooks after reading the letter. "Ever since I entered on this work of reform my mail has been filled with this kind of trash."

Bryan Continues to Attack Roosevelt

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 18.—William J. Bryan arrived here tonight, after a day spent in speech making in Utah and Salt Lake valleys. He spoke at the Salt Lake theater here tonight and was greeted by an audience that completely filled the playhouse. His speech tonight was in most part an attack on Colonel Roosevelt.
"Mr. Roosevelt's plan to control the trusts through the establishment of a bureau of five men, to be appointed by the president, is merely an invitation to the trusts and to the leaders in Wall street to enter politics and control presidential elections," he said.
In closing, Mr. Bryan charged that Colonel Roosevelt was not for the people, but was aligned with the trusts and with the men of Wall street. Mr. Bryan left here tonight for Butte, Mont., where he is scheduled to speak tomorrow night.

MEXICAN PRISONERS TO BE GIVEN TRIAL TODAY

MARFA, Tex., Sept. 18.—Col. Pascual Orozco, Sr., and five other staff officers of Pascual Orozco, Jr., rebel commander of the north, arrived here tonight from Presidio, Tex., to which point they fled after the rebel defeat at Ojinaga, Mex., opposite. They were in custody of United States Marshal Mathews and a squad of United States cavalry.

The Mexican consul here has filed a complaint against all of the prisoners charging violation of United States neutrality laws. The examining trial will be held tomorrow before United States Commissioner Griffin. Several attorneys are here to represent the defendants, who are Pascual Orozco, Sr., Cristobal Caballero, Rafael Flores, M. C. Aldaz and Jose Cordova. The latter was General Orozco's private secretary and chief adviser.

Gen. Pascual Orozco is safe in Mexico at the head of 1,600 men, according to an announcement made tonight by R. Gomez Robelo, the revolutionary representative in the United States.

GEN. OROZCO STILL WITH HIS TROOPS

Tells of Ojinaga Fight Where Rebels Mistook Federals for Friends

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 18.—Gen. Pascual Orozco, Jr., leader of the Mexican revolution in the north, is at the head of his troops in the Ojinaga district and has succeeded in reorganizing the rebel forces scattered by the federal column of Gen. Tracy Aubert. This was announced today from the revolutionary "junta" here, where it was said that direct word from Orozco had been received by courier to the border and thence by mail to El Paso.

In his communication to rebel agents here, General Orozco said that he had heard of the capture by United States troops at Presidio, Tex., of his staff officers, including his father, Col. Pascual Orozco. He explained the cause of his defeat at Ojinaga, and declared that he had succeeded in gathering his forces and moving down the Conchos river with few losses of men or horses.

General Orozco reported that only his advance had participated in the fight at Ojinaga, and that, after the first victory, when he was about to bring up his main body of men, the rebel advance participated in a "fiasco" and drank too heavily of native liquor.

Thought Federal Were Friends. At this time General Aubert's main column arrived. The federal advance, consisting of volunteers uniformed in brown, as are the insurgents, made a flank movement on the main column of the rebels and were mistaken for the rebel advance returning.

When the supposed friends opened fire, Orozco's men stampeded in a panic in the night, and it was not until the next day that the rebel leader had succeeded in reorganizing his forces. His father, Colonel Orozco, and the general's other staff officers, were said to have been cut off by the enemy and forced to take refuge on the American side, as did many members of the advance guard.

Intoxicated, they threw their rifles into the river and attempted to swim the stream. Many are believed to have met death in the waters. This, Orozco asserts, is his only material loss as a result of the two days' engagement. Orozco is said to remain in command of more than 1,000 men.

50,000 AT FUNERAL OF COUNT NOGI AND WIFE

Services for Japan's Great Warrior Held With Impressive Ceremonies

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—The double funeral of Gen. Count Maresuke Nogi, supreme military counselor of Japan and his wife, the Countess Nogi, who committed suicide on the night of September 12, just as the body of the late Emperor Mutsuhito passed out of Tokyo city on its way to the imperial tomb at Monzuma, was held today with impressive ceremony at the Aoyama cemetery in the presence of enormous crowds. The funeral cortege left the Nogi residence in Akasaka, a Tokyo suburb, at 3 o'clock this afternoon and passed through the streets of the capital. The body of Japan's great warrior was borne on a gun carriage while the casket containing the body of the countess was carried in a hearse. The pallbearers were chosen from the highest ranks of the Japanese army and navy. One regiment of infantry acted as a guard of honor.

Representatives of the special foreign envoys who came to attend the funeral of the late Japanese monarch and the resident ambassador and minister participated in the procession, which together numbered upwards of 50,000 persons.

Marching behind the coffins were great numbers of relatives of soldiers killed at Port Arthur, while serving under General Nogi in the spring of 1904.

The special ambassador of the United States, Frederick C. Knox, did not participate in the ceremony, he being absent at Kyoto, where he went to visit the grave in the imperial estate of Monzuma, close by of Emperor Mutsuhito. He was represented, however, by Brigadier General John J. Pershing, of the special embassy staff. Mr. Knox sent a magnificent wreath.

The funeral ceremony at the great funeral hall was extremely impressive, and was attended by thousands of people. All the foreign diplomats had seats within the temple.

Charles Page Bryan, the resident ambassador, was attended by Secretary Arthur B. Bland and Lieutenant Commander Lyman A. Cotton and Captain Hubert L. Wigmore, respectively the naval and military attaches of the embassy.

Prince Arthur of Connaught personally laid a floral tribute upon the coffin. Many hundreds of wreaths were received from all parts of the world. Ambassador Bryan sent two superb trees.

After the Shinto rites had been performed, high salutes were fired and a triple volley fired over the grave at five minutes past five rang out, thus bringing to an end the ceremony of laying to rest the bodies of the hero of Port Arthur and his wife.

Fifty European geographers are expected to take part in the two months trip planned by the American Geographical Society. The start will be made August 21, and 10,000 miles of United States territory will be covered.

REBEL BANDS SAID TO BE MOBILIZING FOR ATTACK

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Sept. 18.—With most of the rebel bands in Sonora mobilizing at Colonia Morelos and the federal forces concentrating at Protoneras and Yzabel on the Nacozari railroad, the revolutionary situation in that part of Sonora tributary to this city is rapidly approaching a crisis.

A general engagement between the embossed rebels who heretofore have been acting independently of each other and all available federal troops in the vicinity is confidently predicted. The crisis in the situation is expected to be reached in a few days, when the Nacozari railroad will have restored its burned bridges and tracks, according to the report made today to the American state department by Consul Alexander Dye. Rapid progress has been made with the repair work, but unless the rebels are suppressed the authorities here believe that they will keep their threats to prevent the railroad from operating as retaliation for the transporting of government troops over the line.

Upon orders of Mexican Consul Cuesta, 150 rifles and 15,000 rounds of ammunition, were shipped to Nacozari today for the arming of Mexican miners who have expressed a desire to take part in the defense of the town in the event of attack.

REFUGEES FROM MORMON COLONIES COME IN FREE

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 18.—American refugees from the Mormon colonies of Mexico today may enter the United States without paying duties on their possessions. This includes the household goods piled in the "prairie schooners" or the horses or mules drawing the historic vehicles. United States customs officials along the Mexican border have received instructions from Washington to admit all necessary possessions of the refugees duty free.

Such special dispensation is the first in many years of the sort of the customs service. It will allow the Mormon settlers in Chihuahua and Sonora to move their portable homes over the international line and camp on the American side with neither duty on their possessions nor transportation cost.

The Mormons, as did the pioneers of '49, move in wagon trains. At the side the men march ahead of the horses. The women and children ride in the canvas covered wagons.

It is believed that the recent permission of the United States government will attract a general exodus of the Mormon settlers who remained behind in the trouble zone to care for their homes and farms. The Mormon settlements in the Casas Grandes district southwest of the border at this point remain practically unprotected by Mexican federal troops.

TROOPS DETAILED FOR ACTIVE BORDER DUTY

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 18.—Three troops of the Thirtieth cavalry recently arrived here from Fort Riley, Kan., will be detailed for active border duty tomorrow morning. The troops will be sent out to various points on the Texas border, evidently to guard against the rebel army led by General Orozco, which is reported moving east from Ojinaga, where the rebels met defeat.

YACUI INDIANS CAPTURE ALTAR

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Sept. 18.—Word was received through official sources tonight that the Yaqui Indians, situated on the south of Agua Prieta, had captured the altar of the Catholic church at Yacui, about 10 miles from the border. The altar was captured after a long battle with the garrison of 50 federal soldiers.

Information which reached here tonight said that the Yaqui Indians had captured the altar of the Catholic church at Yacui, about 10 miles from the border. The altar was captured after a long battle with the garrison of 50 federal soldiers.

The Catholic church is not on trial, said Judge Clark.

Mrs. Magnusson alleges the kidnapping of her daughter, Marguerite Reiman, and her detention in various convents. In the argument preceding the dismissal, counsel for Bishop O'Dea contended that there was no evidence to connect the bishop or the corporation with the alleged conspiracy.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1912.
 NO FLAG OF TRUCE

PROGRESS does not mean standing still or walking backward. If it does not contemplate a forward and upward movement it cannot be progress.

Five years ago when The Gazette enlisted in the then small regiment waging war for Progressive principles it realized that its period of enlistment did not expire until the war had been won. It is on the firing line today.

Faith to party is a commendable thing; provided, that the party is right. If the party is wrong faith becomes a blind worship. Faith to the people is, after all, the great issue and this can only mean that a party must prove loyal to those principles of government which tend to a betterment of every condition affecting the general welfare of all the people and not a part of them.

Summed up it is a question of principle, rather than party. A question in which human rights, and privileges are paramount to party or party principles.

The Gazette entered the campaign for Colonel Roosevelt and Philip B. Stewart, believing that these men represented honest government for state and nation. Its position remains unchanged.

The fight for the decent principles of government in the state met with defeat at the primaries. A defeat that did not represent the sentiment of the rank and file of the voters of Colorado. It was administered to honest men by dishonest machine backed by a conscienceless corporation in absolute power in two or three counties of the state. It is useless to continue the fight for honest government within the Republican party.

The professions of the politicians in the party are blank cartridges. No battle can be won with such ammunition.

Our principles have not changed our cause has not been defeated. The primary results were simply a little rock in the road. The battle ground is the same.

But we purpose to load with ammunition, and aim where it will count.

Today the grand army of principle and progress is marching under the banner held aloft by Theodore Roosevelt. In the state this splendid army is under command of Philip B. Stewart. We began the battle under their generalship and we are going to fight it to a finish under their flag.

These men represent the vital principles of government so far as the people are concerned. They are fighting special interests in connection with the participation of these interests in politics and, moreover, they are fighting to place human rights above any party, platform or theory advanced by the machines to mislead the people.

The war is an unequal one in some ways. The corporations, as represented by machine leaders, are equipped with organization, with funds and with patronage. On our side we have the people with their determination and their ballots. Those armed with the righteous cause must force the fighting. They must expect to find the enemy in ambush or at the flank. They will not meet the people in the open but their rout is as certain as it is that the night follows the day.

The principles of the Progressive party are not new. The principles for which Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Stewart are fighting are not new. They are as old as the sun that shone upon the Ten Commandments given to the world from Mount Sinai and iterated and reiterated by the Lowly Nazarene who bore the message of peace and righteousness to the world.

 Right will triumph, and in its triumph the invisible government behind our visible government will perish and with its passing will come the dawn of a day in politics when human rights will be regarded as more important than party rights, property rights or the right of the few to destroy the inalienable rights of the many.
 The fight is still on. There will be no retreat and The Gazette has no flag of truce.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT
 THE mention of this name moves the red blood of the American people. It carries with it the thought of a man of vigorous action—a man who accomplishes things.
 Today this idol of so many millions of the American people will be the guest of Colorado Springs. His mission here is to bring to us a realization of what we have failed, as citizens, to do and what by right, as citizens, we should do.
 We know that he will tell us and that his words will prove so plain that those who run may read. Roosevelt possesses a delightful habit of making it plain just where he stands and what he stands for.
 Convictions, and the courage to express them, are not concealed weapons with him. He believes in fighting things manifestly wrong, not only believes in it but fights them.
 It has been said that no man in recent years no man since the days of the lamented Lincoln has obtained such a hold upon the heart strings of the American people.

Mr. Roosevelt is of the type the people are seeking. Men who, as servants, will fight their battles for them. The average man and woman is engaged in a battle for bread and butter. The ballot is their only weapon and it is not a matter for marvel that, with lack of time and information, they show appreciation of the man who does not prove recreant to the trust reposed in him and proves in deed and in truth a valuable and honest servant of the people.
 More than this the people applaud him because, after he had been robbed of a nomination which belonged to him, he got right out after those who robbed him and there is little doubt that they realize that he is on their trail.
 Thousands of people will greet him today and from the bottom of their hearts cheer him on in the marvelous fight he is making against those who would destroy the better principles of government.
 There is but one Roosevelt, but one fearless fighter who reaches millions of people and teaches them the lessons of good government. This afternoon you will hear him and see him.
 Do not fear but that you will get the facts straight from the shoulder. Of all the men of the nation, or of the world, not one possesses the power of getting at the truth and pounding it home possessed by Colonel Roosevelt.

SUNDAY MAIL DELIVERY.
 From the Philadelphia Ledger.
 The Sunday closing order, effective September 1, which provides that no mail except special delivery letters shall be delivered or placed in boxes on Sunday, will cause a great deal of inconvenience to business men who must wait from Saturday midnight until Monday morning for important communications. To their protest will be joined the remonstrance of hotel proprietors, to whose transient guests exclusion from postal facilities, so far as the receipt of letters is concerned, is likely to be regarded as a hardship, since in many cases these guests desire to leave town on Monday, and the postal embargo.
 The desire of the postal clerks for one day's respite, after six of peculiarly arduous labor, is but natural. Yet it should not be necessary to suspend the function of these clerks in granting them their day of rest. If the present appropriation is not sufficient to engage substitutes it should be increased. Philadelphia is too large a city and there are too many important interests involved for us to be satisfied with remaining on a party with a small village in so far as mail facilities on Sunday are concerned. If a man who expects a valued letter is willing to take the time and the trouble to go to the postoffice on Sunday to get it he should be allowed to do so, at least during a single specified hour in the day. As time goes on the postal service should improve, not deteriorate, and the retrogressive measure for which the new postal appropriations bill provides will be received with disfavor from one end of the country to the other.

A CRUSADE AGAINST THE HOBBLE.
 From the New York American.
 Throughout the west the hobble skirt has come in for general condemnation. Ministers and club women unite in calling it immoral.
 The Civic League of Chicago voices its protest in the following resolution sent to the chief of police:
 "Clean men constantly condemn by word and act men who speak to girls and women or treat them in such manner as they would not tolerate from any man toward their own sister, sweetheart, wife or mother.
 "Men and women alike insist upon a decent standard of dress among girls and women—becoming, charming, but not suggestive, and insist that no girl or woman who is a true, thoughtful lady will dress suggestively.
 "Year by year and month by month," says Miss Belmont, president of the league, "the garb of women has been growing shorter and tighter."
 Bishop Dowling of the Catholic diocese of St. Pauline declares that the present state of attire is "immoral." He thinks, however, that American women do not wear modern clothes to be immoral but to follow the dictates of fashion.
 "Women's costume," he declares, "is more immoral every year because they are designed in a country which is frankly immoral."
 In Omaha the Women's club will visit all dress-makers to urge them to discourage the making of light gowns. Merchants will be asked not to sell objectionable dresses, and women who wear clothes which make them objects of marked attention will be requested to put on more modest attire.

 Women should regard this growing agitation as a compliment. In no country are they so looked up to by husbands, fathers, brothers and sweethearts as here. It is unfortunate that they should do anything to forfeit this respect which once lost is hard to regain.
 Yet the fight about it brings about this very result. Since women pride themselves upon their beauty in all the mental as well as physical attributes, why should they recklessly throw away one of their chief charms—modesty?

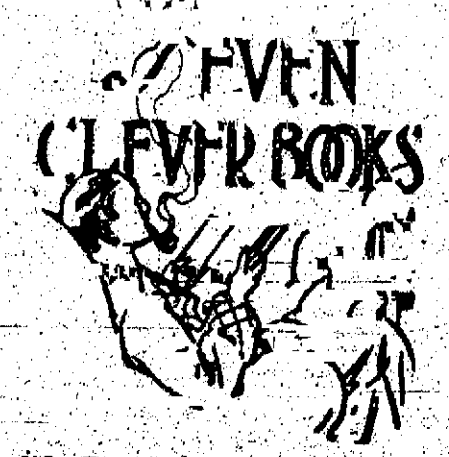

Doing Things Twice
 BY RUTH CAMERON.

The lady who always knows somehow had been cheering us up one rainy day by reading extracts from a letter telling in a most amusing way about a vacation trip which had turned out a complete fizzle.
 "Isn't she brave to be able to laugh about it?" commented the lady as she folded up the letter. She only has two weeks to herself in the whole year, you know."
 "And to think that if she had just gone to the other place she would have met those friends with the automobile and had a wonderful lady," commented Molly, the little stenographer lady, "aren't things always happening like that? It seems to me that this would be a much better world if one could only do everything twice. We are always making mistakes about everything because we are always doing everything for the first time, and we naturally don't know any better. I think it would be fine if we were allowed to do everything twice—everything, I mean, going on vacations, and picking out clothes and getting married and bringing up children and—everything."
 "You do have the chance to do everything twice if you want to enough," Molly said the man-who-thinks.
 "What do you mean?" asked Molly.
 "I mean that you can do everything twice if you'll be willing to do it vicariously the first time," said the man-who-thinks.
 Molly cocked her head thoughtfully, while the wants-to-be-cynic ostentatiously offered her a dictionary.
 "Did you ever," went on the man-who-thinks, "did you ever yet do one of those foolish things that you have afterwards regretted and wanted to try again without having been strongly advised by someone who had traveled that same path not to do it? Now, for instance, just what were you thinking of when you spoke so strongly about wanting to have a second chance?"
 "Why I was thinking about that vacation trip and about the blue dress I bought this spring that spotted so."
 The lady who always knows somehow reopened the letter. "Of course it was all my own fault," she read. "Everyone told me I wouldn't like that trip but I had some romantic ideas about it and I would go."
 "And mother just begged me not to buy that dress," confessed Molly. "She said it would spot. She had one that did. But I thought mine would be different somehow."
 "Somehow you thought yours would be different," mocked the man-who-thinks. "Oh, Molly, you've told the whole story in seven words. Somehow we always think our case will be different."
 "By the way," said the lady who always knows somehow, "I think there's still another way we can do things twice and correct our mistakes."
 "How?" said Molly.
 "By helping the second generation to do them right," said the lady who always knows somehow.
 "And so when we won't take older folks' advice they feel as if they were making the mistakes right over again," cried Molly. "Why I never thought of it that way. That's a very serious thought isn't it?"
 "It is," said the man-who-thinks, and even the wants-to-be-cynic admitted guardedly. "It's quite worth thinking about."

STEAMSHIPS
 BY GEORGE FITCH.
 Author of "At Good Old Sivah"

Steamships were invented about a century ago, but did not become virulent until hotel keepers began building them quite recently.
 Robert Fulton built the first steamboat by inserting an engine into the thorax of a large barge. With this boat he made several miles an hour and traveled from New York to Albany in a day, causing many people to demand his arrest for exceeding the speed limit.
 In 1819 the first steamship crossed the ocean. It was a small boat called the "Savannah" and had none of the modern conveniences, carrying lifeboats instead. His trip was successful and soon afterwards steamships began to grow in length with the rapidity of cucumber plants, until they are now so long and wide that unless a seafaring passenger gets a good sprint, he can't reach the rail by 15 feet.
 Steamships are now built with steel reinforced with aluminum and rich upholstery. They have engines strong enough to yank the pyramids out by the roots, funnels wide enough to "Formerly every passenger bought a seat in a lifeboat." "So he that when a couple of them are dumped overboard, the next tide rises six inches higher." Steamships now run at the rate of 20 miles an hour day and night and cross the ocean in less than five days, stopping only when Providence interferes. It is a thrilling experience to stand on the eleventh story of a modern skyscraper steamship which is traveling at the rate of half a mile a minute through the sea and to realize that if an iceberg should be so reckless as to get in the way, it would get a dent which it would carry for life.
 Steamships are equipped with passenger elevators, air fresco cafes, sun parlors, swimming pools, palm gardens, gymnasiums, vegetable gardens, vaudeville theaters, pipe organs, squash courts, fire escapes, Turkish baths and neat mans in waterproof cloth by means of which the passenger can plunge fearlessly into the sea in case of disaster and swim to New York or Liverpool without danger of turning the wrong corner.
 Formerly every passenger bought a seat in a lifeboat with his passage, but now steamships are like street cars and the then have to give up their seats to the women. This has made the steamship one of the most effective means of reducing the leisure class and enables the ocean traveler to become a first-class traveler and also in a watery grave for the modest sum of $125 plus a dollar for a deck chair and $2.50 in tips.

Steamship travel is greatly enjoyed, and is dreaded by many on account of the tipping, both of the vessel and of the ship's crew. Ships are now being constructed with anti-tipping tanks, but this refers only to the vessel. The crew will continue to be tipped as usual, only, more so.

NO. 5 "ROBERT MACAIRE"

The French story of "Robert Macaire" has furnished no end of resources for writers of both the dramatic and the lyric stage. The origin of the story is somewhat in doubt, but a long series of stories have developed through this hero, Chevalier Macaire, a French knight, who more than five hundred years ago murdered Aubrey de Montdidier in the forest of Bondy. There are many interesting details connected with this celebrated case, among which are the apprehension of the assassin on suspicion aroused by the conduct of Montdidier's faithful dog, "Dragon," who had witnessed the attack, showed a natural enmity towards the murderer of his master, and the subsequent judicial battle between the two endings in the defeat of the latter and the confession of his crime.
 From this period, 1371, Macaire, under various guises, became a familiar figure on the French stage. Two of these dramatic renderings, one "Le Forêt de Bondy ou le Chien de Montargis," and the other "Le Chien d'Aubrey," enjoyed a vast popularity. The former, by Guilbert de Pivercourt, was adapted to the English stage, and the leading character was played by a famous trained dog. In this manner the Chevalier was nearly lost sight of, and it was left to D'Aumier to revive him in all the glory of his original villainy in the melodrama of "L'Auberge des Adrets."
 Robert Macaire had long been a name synonymous with every species of depravity, and it was not unnatural that D'Aumier should have represented him as a vulgar brigand, ready to cut a throat or pick a pocket on the slightest provocation. The character, however, underwent a miraculous transformation when the great Frederick Lemaitre adopted it as his favorite role.
 It was after this rehabilitation of the character that D'Aumier made his debut as a caricaturist by contributing to Chagivari a series of sketches in which Robert Macaire was successively depicted as a banker, an advocate, a journalist, etc., in whom were personified perseverance, impudence and charlatanism. D'Aumier has come to be known in the last times as the "Aristophanes of the French Caricature," and in this manner Robert Macaire came to be the sportive designation of the Frenchman in general.

About forty years ago the late comedian and dramatist, Charles Silly, adapted "L'Auberge des Adrets" to the English stage, and in the English Robert Macaire we have the same grotesquely picturesque thief, with his timid, nervous accomplice, as in the comic opera of "Erminie," and their history is almost substantially the same, although the attendant circumstances are different.
 In both drama and light opera the thieves escape from a prison and present themselves as guests and their soiled, ragged and heterogeneous attire subject them to close questioning on the part of the servant, Bertrand. He always nervously apprehensive that the gendarmes will catch them, while Redmond assures him they have nothing to fear; to which the former rejoins: "Oh, haven't we thought?"
 It is a noticeable fact that in "Erminie," the roughest of the many versions of this famous French story, it is upon the simple Cadeux, rather than on his clever chief that public interest centers. This seems like a return to the original form of the play, as the hero of the play, TOMORROW—"GIL BLAS."

20,000 IN PARADE
DEMAND HOME RULE

ENNISKILLIN, Ireland, Sept. 18.—Twenty thousand persons participated here today in the first of a series of demonstrations preliminary to Ulster day, September 28, when Ulsterists throughout the United Kingdom will sign a covenant pledging themselves not to submit to home rule in Ireland.
 Sir Edward H. Carson, president of the Ulster-Orange association, and formerly solicitor general for Ireland, in a speech declared that home rule was not a question of politics, but of the very life of the country.
 The other demonstrations, at which the Ulster leader will make addresses, are being held throughout the province of Ulster and will continue for 10 days.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS
TALK MONEY MATTERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Rella Wells, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, arrived in Chicago today from New York for a conference with E. M. Grosvenor, assistant treasurer, and Charles R. Crane, vice chairman of the finance committee. Judge Will R. King, member of the Democratic national committee from Oregon, has been named to take charge of campaign work in the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states. Mr. King will have offices at national headquarters in Chicago and direct his work from here. United States Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma arrived in Chicago today. Senator Owen, who has been ill, said he would be unable to participate in the campaign outside of Oklahoma.
 W. A. Smith, Bridgeton, Ind., is telling his friends and neighbors of his return to health and strength by the use of Foley Kidney Pills, and he says he wants others to benefit also. "I was so crippled," he says, "that I could not dress without help, and had kidney troubles for years." I started using Foley Kidney Pills and now all my trouble has left me and I do not feel that I ever had kidney trouble. I rest well all night, and though 58 years old, can now do the work of a man of 25 years. I would like to be the means of others getting health from Foley Kidney Pills." The Robinson Drug Co.

 It was reported that a rich silver mine had been discovered four miles southwest of Canon City.
 It froze hard enough to form ice in various parts of the city.
 A large number of antelope were being brought into the Colorado Springs market. They were said to be more plentiful in the eastern part of the county than for several years past.
 J. B. Orman of Pueblo, a well-known railroad contractor, who subsequently became governor of Colorado, was in the city, and reported that the D. & G. line to Santa Fe would be completed by January 1.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY
 SEPTEMBER 19, 1892.
 The restrictions on the use of water for sprinkling were removed, with the exception of that requiring all hydrants to be turned off upon the sounding of a fire alarm.
 The High School cadets had organized with 35 members and had ordered their uniforms.
 There was a fire in the building occupied by the Creamerie restaurant at the corner of Tejon and Huertano streets. Quick work by the fire department prevented the blaze from becoming serious.

THE HASKIN LETTER
 HYGIENE AND SANITATION
 VI—THE FOOD PROBLEM.
 By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Since the medical world has penetrated the mysteries of many of the germ-produced diseases to which human flesh is heir, and has found methods of controlling them which need only the cooperation of the people to become as efficient as the embargo against yellow fever at Panama, laboratory experts are turning their attention from food and more to other problems, principal among these the question of food and health. While the spread of action-producing intelligence concerning methods of combating and overcoming germ-produced diseases has resulted in a most remarkable decline in the number of deaths from those diseases, it has been noted through vital statistics that chronic diseases and those that are not germ-produced are on the increase, and that while their increasing frequency does not counter-balance the results of hygienic work, it does in a measure keep the total number of deaths from being cut down as rapidly as would be the case if they were not to be reckoned with.
 That food has much to do with the increasing frequency of chronic diseases, such as rheumatism, Bright's disease and the like, is well recognized. When taken in connection with the use of intoxicants and tobacco, a large majority of the chronic ailments may be traced directly or indirectly to the things that enter the stomach. Diets too rich in protein disorder the alimentary system. Diets showing an oversupply of fats are likewise ill suited to health. A balanced ration is regarded as half the battle in defending the race from chronic diseases.
 GERM ENTER THROUGH MOUTH.
 Not only are the chronic diseases produced by foods, but many a case of germ-produced disease has come via this route as well. In fact, a large percentage of the contagious and infectious diseases find lodgment in the human system through the mouth. Typhoid fever is almost wholly a disease carried to a victim through milk and water and food. A single instance will serve for thousands that might be cited showing how positive is the evidence that milk is a great carrier of typhoid, and that even above this average cleanliness will not suffice to prevent the germs from doing great harm. In August, 1908, there was an outbreak of 380 cases of typhoid which were traced to one dairy farm, which as described by the health authorities as exceptionally clean and well kept. The owner had typhoid fever during the civil war and he has been a germ carrier ever since. Six cases of fever had occurred on his farm between 1875 and 1908. When his milk supply was suppressed the epidemic ceased.
 Water is the most frequent carrier of typhoid germ, and the old proverb that when it runs over seven stones it is purified, is not borne out by experience. Before Chicago built its drainage canal typhoid fever was an ever-present disease. It is estimated that the building of that waterway has saved Chicago nearly 100,000 lives since the beginning of the present century. The changing from river water to mountain water in some of the cities of Germany in some instances has reduced the number of cases of typhoid by three-fourths. No city in the world that has improved its water supply and regulated its milk supply has failed to reduce its typhoid to a remarkable degree.
 Few people pause to think of the germs that lurk in vegetables which come from the green grocer. Thousands of cases have been recorded where harmful germs, such as those of typhoid, lurk on lettuce and celery, on radishes, and on watercress. Careful washing, it has been shown, reduces the danger, but the most careful housekeeper does not wash her vegetables clean enough to insure freedom from germs. There is a movement in some places to restrict the sale of these vegetables to such places as can show freedom from soil pollution.
 In its study of food hygiene the International Congress of Hygiene and Demography will consider many interesting questions. It has long been known by the laboratory expert that the most nutritious foods are not always the most costly foods. Dr. Langworthy of the department of agriculture will show at the congress just how far this is true. He will show how Boston beans are infinitely cheaper than Chicago beef, and yet more nutritious and equally palatable—if you think so. There are many ways of preparing cheese that makes it as palatable as meat, and it has a higher food value than beef that costs one-half more and has twice as much waste. People who live well do not realize what hardships the high cost of foods has entailed upon the wage-earners of the low-paid trades. An old Virginia negro bondlark, who has a little stand in front of one of the leading financial institutions of the nation's capital, and right across the street from the national treasury, finds it hard work to get enough money to eat meat once a week under the present reign of high prices.

 America never yet has come to the tight pinch where dogs and cats have had to be used as food, although in Europe the high prices of meat have forced the use of dogs for this purpose. In a number of European cities, including Breslau, Dresden and Leipzig, dogs are slaughtered extensively for food and are regularly inspected at the slaughter house. The meat is served as roast dog, while in many parts of Saxony it is eaten raw, being highly seasoned. In Paris the annual slaughter of horses, mules and donkeys reaches 30,000,000 pounds of dressed meat, over 60,000 animals being slaughtered. It is said that the better cuts of horse meat bring about 29 cents a pound.
 The adulteration of sausage has long been the most dangerous form of food adulteration practiced. The cheaper grades of sausage still justify the remark of Jean Paul that only gods can eat sausages since only they can know what sausages are made. Tribulations in still allowed to be made up into sausage, the only requirement of the meat inspection laws being that it first shall be subjected to sufficient heat to kill the parasites. Certain of the artificial sausage colors, such as "Orange II," are easily extracted with acidulated water and will dye wool immersed in it.
 Diet Is Cause of Disease.
 The greatest food experts in the world will attend the International Congress of Hygiene and Demography to tell what they have learned as a result of their researches into the mysteries of food. Some of them will present studies concerning the methods and the conditions of nutrition, showing exactly how bones grow, how food affects the growing child, and what the food requirements of babies are, while others will devote their attention directly to the question of the relation of foods to health. For instance, it has been shown conclusively by prolonged experiments, that beri-beri comes from eating polished rice, and that scurvy frequently follows certain forms of underfeeding. The diet is pronounced by many physicians as the principal cause of many severe diseases of the stomach and intestines, as well as of some of the diseases of the circulation. A paper by a leading German authority on this subject promises to be one of the most important contributions to the congress.
 There are those who believe that the invisible rays of light will stand between us and danger from taking disease germs into our systems. Although the human eye cannot see the rays of light, it being as black as Stygian darkness where no other rays than the infra-red and the ultra-violet appear, yet the eye of the camera can see them and translate them for us. Likewise, the disease germ can feel them—indeed it can feel them so much

RED SOX ARE NOW CHAMPS

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The Boston club clinched the American league pennant. All possibility of their being taken was disposed of when Philadelphia lost to Chicago today the first of a doubleheader.

To relieve the tension among members of his team, and assure finally the pennant for Boston, President McAleer Boston notified the management of New York team that Boston would play off a postponed game scheduled for New York.

Boston now can lose all of its remaining games and win the pennant through Washington, which went to second place today, should win all remaining 13 games, and Philadelphia should win all its remaining 14 games. Should this possibility develop, final standing would be:

Club	Won	Lost	Pct.
Boston	97	56	.634
Philadelphia	97	57	.630
Washington	97	57	.630

The league schedule calls for 154 games, but under the rules Boston can use to play its postponed game with New York, its series in New York with club being closed.

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME SATURDAY; TIGERS-FRESHIES

The first football game of the season locally will be played Saturday afternoon when Coach Rothger's Tigers and Freshmen will meet on Washburn field. The game will be more on the order of a tryout for both squads, and every football candidate will be given a chance to show his mettle. It is expected that some good material will show up in the game that heretofore has been thought mediocre.

The official football schedule for the Tigers, as announced yesterday by Manager Thomas Lynch, Jr., is as follows:

September 21—C. C. Freshmen.
September 28—C. C. Alumni.
October 5—C. S. H. S. Tigers.
October 12—University of Wyoming, at Colorado Springs.
October 17—Colorado Aggies, at Colorado Springs.
October 26—Nebraska Wesleyan university, at Colorado Springs.
November 2—University of Colorado, at Colorado Springs.
November 9—University of Utah, at Salt Lake City.
November 16—School of Mines, at Colorado Springs.
November 23—Denver university, at Denver.
November 28—Thanksgiving (game not arranged).

"GRAPEVINE" HOLD IS DONNELLY'S BEST

A brand new hold in the wrestling game has been discovered by Mike Donnelly, the big Irish mat artist, who grapples with Yusiff Hussane, the Terrible Turk, tomorrow night at Temple theater, in a return match between the two. The hold is the "grapevine and headlock," and is used in connection with the crotch and half-nelson grips.

The Irishman says he will go to work on the offensive from the start, and this will put Hussane on the defensive. Hussane must get two falls in 75 minutes to win the bout, and a fall for the Turk will practically mean the match, the side bet and the gate receipts.

But in her case there was a good reason. Her father—Dr. B. J. Patterson of Pratt, Kan.—was one of the first motorcycle "boosters" in that state. Now he's president of the Federation of American Motorcyclists. He knew the pleasures of motorcycling and

NELSON, KNOWLES AND KEMP NOT IN U. C. LINEUP

BOULDER, Sept. 18.—Gloom is hanging over the Silver and Gold football camp here today due to the announcement that "Pete" Nelson, star halfback, Carl Knowles, veteran guard, and End Frank Kemp, would probably not be found in the Colorado lineup this year. Nelson injured his bad foot in the first practice and his parents have stepped in to stop his football playing.

Knowles may enter the state agricultural institution and Kemp, while in the city, has announced that he will not be in college. These three big holes will be hard for the Boulder coaches to fill. Folsom, McFadden, Castleman and Mills are coaching the team this fall. A line average of 195 pounds to the man, a backfield average of 164 pounds and a total team average of 186 pounds is the manner in which the team now running signals as the first team of the Colorado football squad lines up on paper. From fackle to tackle the weight per man is 211 pounds.

Reithan, a 240-pound giant is being practiced at center, while Gentry, who has been placed at guard, beats this mark ten pounds. The combined team as it is now will weigh slightly in excess of a ton.

Whether or not the team is to stand as it is cannot be told. Several of the lineups have had previous experience and may be superseded by other players.

$10,000 PURSE AT DETROIT WON BY CANADIAN COLT

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—Princess Todd, owned by a stock farm at Galt, Ont., driven by Murphy, this afternoon proved herself the best in the field of splendid three-year-olds, by winning the major portion of the Horseman's future purse of $10,000. Brighton is, Manrico and the Canadian filly, each won one of the three heats in this event, the feature of today's Grand Circuit program, but Princess Todd's standing in the final summary was highest.

The track was muddy and about eight seconds slow when racing started late in the afternoon. None of the races on today's original program were reached and one of Tuesday's events, the futurity pace, was unfinished after two time heats.

Five heats were required to decide the 2:12 trot which was started yesterday. Robert Milroy, with the best average after the fifth heat, was declared winner.

Joe Patchen II, with one heat of the 2:12 pace, already to his credit, won two more in easy style today. He was never urged and finished both rounds slowing down.

Trot, 2:12, 3 in 5, purse $1,000; two heats yesterday—Robert Milroy, won; Duchester, second; Baron Alcyona, third. Best time 2:17.4.

Trot, 3-year-old, purse $10,000—Horseman's futurity, (one heat Tuesday)—Princess Todd, first; Brighton B. second; Manrico, third. Best time 2:11.4.

The $10,000 purse was divided as follows:

A Cure from the Forest

Nature in her wisdom and beneficence has provided, in her great vegetable laboratory, the forest, for most of the ills and ailments of humanity. Work and study have perfected the compounding of these botanical medicines and placed them at our disposal. We rely upon them first because of their ability in curing disease, and next because we can use them with the confidence that such remedies do not injure the system. Among the best of these remedies from the forest is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely of roots, herbs and bark. It does not contain a particle of harmful mineral. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison and all other diseases dependent on impure blood. As a tonic S. S. S. builds up the system by supplying a sufficient amount of vigor and nourishment to the body. S. S. S. always cures without leaving any unpleasant or injurious effects. Book on the blood and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

The Telephone Directory

Is referred to so much oftener than a city directory. It's more reliable.

A city directory is compiled occasionally, and the telephone directory three times each year.

Old-Time Remedy Darkens the Hair

For generations Sage and Sulphur have been used for hair and scalp troubles. Almost everyone knows the value of such a combination for keeping the hair a good even color, for curing dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair, and for promoting the growth of the hair. Years ago the only way to get a hair tonic of this kind was to make it in the home, which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost any up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully prepared in perfectly equipped laboratories.

An ideal preparation of this sort is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for scalp troubles and thin, weak hair that is losing its color or coming out. After using this remedy for a few days, you will notice the color gradually coming back, your scalp will feel better, the dandruff will soon be gone, and in less than a month's time there will be a wonderful difference in your hair.

Don't neglect your hair. It is full of dandruff, losing its color or coming out. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Agents, the Robinson Drug Co.
